DAILY PROGRESS.

TUESDAY [illegible] 1864.

[illegible]

New Advertisements.—Tucker, Andrews & Co.—Clover Seed for sale.

Sunday night was very cold and the yesterday morning was chilly [illegible] We have seen warmer weather in December. We [illegible] for [illegible] comfortable.

There was a frost [illegible] in the vicinity of this city on Saturday, we learn, but [illegible] that there are very few in Wake to [illegible].

We learn that private advices have been received stating that Major Benton [illegible] was [illegible] prisoner [illegible] and is now in the hands of the enemy. We are truly glad it is no worse.

Among the Confederate Officers who arrived in Richmond by a flag of truce last week, we notice the following from North Carolina:

Major [illegible] W. C. [illegible] H. Spencer, [illegible] C. Wheeler, 3d N. C. Cavalry; [illegible] J. H. Davis, 55th N. C.; [illegible] E. Belton, 2nd; J. J. Moss, 24; J. B. Chambers, 6th; W. Norfleet, [illegible]

THE EXAMINER ON THE SITUATION.

The Examiner [illegible] in Saturday's issue, concerning the situation:

The final struggle for the possession of Richmond and of Virginia is now near. This war draws to a close. If Richmond be held by the South till the last of November, it will be sure [illegible] Government, for the North will never throw another large army [illegible] beyond a doubt, with the [illegible] Events have made [illegible] the keystone of the arch. Probably the last [illegible] effort for its destruction which the enemy [illegible] had not Atlanta fallen from the hands of Hood. But Sherman's [illegible] compels Grant to match it or sink into insignificance.

According to their well settled custom, the enemy proclaims the intention. Grant himself, in a public speech made during his late journey, has notified his country that whereas "Sherman had completed his task in Georgia, he was on his way to crush the head of the rebellion in Virginia." What is of more importance, he has brought up the James fifty-five thousand new troops. It is true that they will hardly do more than make up the depletion of the last two months. It is also true that they are troops of the very commonest description—the substitutes, the crimped levies, the refuse of the Yankee army. But they are not brought here now in mass except to be employed immediately. The blow must be struck within the next three weeks, or it cannot be struck at all. Even success would be useless for the election, unless obtained in the coming month.

But it is useless to enumerate the proofs of the proposition which no intelligent observer can treat as doubtful, that the final struggle for Virginia is about to be made below Petersburg; and perhaps, too, in the valley. Only one fear clouds the reflecting mind. It is not the fear that our Generals will be found unequal to their duty, or that our armies are insufficient. It is a fear arising from memories of the past conduct of our central military authority in every such crisis. Just when the scale trembles, just when the tiger is about to spring, just when the enemies columns are about to emerge from the mist, that has hitherto been found their chosen moment to disintegrate our own force, and to attempt insignificant conquests a hundred miles away. Longstreet was sent to threaten Knoxville while Grant was about to bound on Lookout Mountain; an army was distinguishing itself before "Little Washington" while Butler was landing at Bermuda Hundred; Breckenridge was ordered out of the Valley while Hunter was entering it. Recollections like these crowd upon the mind and painfully oppress it now. This species of strategy, so often occurring, is the sole fear of the army and the country at this moment. But surely at this time at least, we tremble before shadows. Some personages in history have been styled worse than the untaught, because they were unteachable, but their existence may be doubted. By such stern lessons as the Confederate authorities have received, they must have learned at least this much—that troops must be concentrated in a country at stake, not sent out of it.

IMPORTANT DECISION.—Judge Halyburton of the Confederate Court at Richmond has delivered his opinion in the case of John H Briscoe and the thirty Marylanders who appeared before him under writ of habeas corpus, claiming their discharge from military service on the ground that their term of service had expired. The Judge was of the opinion that these men, being Marylanders, and therefore not embraced within the conscription act, could not be held, the term of voluntary enlistment having expired. They were therefore discharged.

Any of our friends receiving important news from the army by private letter or telegrams, will confer a great favor on us by sending or leaving them at this office for our use.

Keeping Tom Thumb's [illegible]—The New York correspondent of the [illegible] is responsible for the following:

[illegible] Tom Thumb [illegible] Mr. and Mrs. Tom Thumb [illegible] a baby [illegible] After this dignified and solemn preamble [illegible] I suppose I am at liberty to say bluntly that Mr. and Mrs. Tom Thumb brought a baby [illegible] and of its immediate ancestors.

Dr. Deems' Appointments.

The Financial Agent of the North Carolina Orphan [illegible] will address the people on the State of the [illegible] in behalf of the Orphans of our Soldiers, at the following times and places, if Providence permit:

Rock Spring, Alexander Co., Sunday, Oct. 2d.
Taylorsville, Alexander Co., Tuesday, Oct. 4th.
Olin, Iredell Co., [illegible] Oct. 5th.
Statesville, Iredell Co., [illegible] Oct. [illegible]
High Point, Guilford Co., Thursday, Oct. 13th.

To [illegible] he has been kindly invited, On [illegible] he will preach [illegible] may be invited which he can reach so as to keep his appointments at Wilkesboro and Rock Spring, and on Thursday, Oct. 6th, [illegible] Taylorsville and Olin.

He begs leave to express his thanks for the unvarying kindness he has received in all [illegible] of the State, and his gratitude to Almighty God, who opens the hearts of [illegible]

The Greensboro, Salem, Statesville, Salisbury and Charlotte papers are respectfully requested to give the above a few insertions.

FRENCH BROAD LANDS FOR SALE.

GLEN CANNON FARM, TRANSYLVANIA COUNTY, N. C.

THIS FARM LIES ON THE FRENCH BROAD RIVer, within five miles of Brevard, the county town, and is extensively known as the best tract of land, and the most productive property in the county, and probably in Western North Carolina. In salubrity of climate, beauty of scenery, location and fertility of soil, it is unsurpassed by any property in the State. It consists of 1,370 acres of land, 400 of which are first quality French Broad bottom, all of which, with the exception of 40 or 50 acres, are cleared and under a high state of cultivation, thoroughly drained and excellent fences, most of which are new lath fencing on locust posts. 2,875 bushels of corn were gathered from 28 acres of this land with ordinary cultivation and without any fertilizer ever having been applied to it. Ninety acres are laid down in the most approved mode, to the grasses and afford heavy crops of hay and excellent pastures. The balance of the tract, say 970 acres, is the heaviest and best timbered mountain land.

The whole tract is under one boundary and may be subdivided advantageously, there being four very eligible and beautiful building sites, with bottom land attached.

On the premises is a good cottage residence, of five rooms, each with a fire place, kitchen, servant houses, ice house, storeroom, dairy, smokehouse, framed corncrib, capacity, 3,500 bushels ear corn, one double and five single negro houses, two tenant settlements, an excellent saw and grist mill, all built within thirteen years by the proprietor. The saw mill is driven by an overshot wheel of 28 feet in diameter, and is located at one of the most beautiful water falls of about 100 feet in height and equal to 150 horse power, and only fifteen minutes walk from the residence.

This property for this year is under rent to General Smith, of East Tennessee, who will give any information desired during the absence of the proprietor.

The price of these lands is (160,000) one hundred and sixty thousand dollars. Payment may be made in Confederate stock at the market value at Columbia, S. C., at time of sale.

With the above property can be purchased twelve remarkably prime and orderly negroes, being a picked gang accustomed to the culture of the farm in the most careful and cleanly style. Among them are four men, three women and five children. The men are excellent plowmen, mowers, cradlers, &c., one is a good carpenter. Of the women, one is an excellent cook and spinner. The children are from one to six years of age. Also the farm tools consisting in part of plows, harrows, horse rake, field roller, corn planters, sorgho mills, molasses boilers, corn sheller, straw cutters, timber carts, &c. Also the stock of highly improved cattle.

Address McK. JOHNSTONE, Spartanburg, S.C.

N. B.—I think I can take the liberty with Judge R. M. Saunders and the Right Rev. Bishop Atkinson, of offering them as references in regard to the value, &c., of my farm.

My cattle consist of 15 head, and my sheep of about 80 head.

I have a considerable lot of lumber and 30,000 shingles on hand.

I will take $200,000 for the land, negroes, stock, farming tools lumber, &c., or will sell separately.

NEW YORK, Sept. 20.—The city is radiant with joy over the glorious news from the Shenandoah Valley [illegible] ... The gold gamblers too, (so will see,) felt bad. "Things are down."

THE PRESIDENT IN AUGUSTA.—The Augusta Chronicle and Sentinel of Friday says:

President Davis, accompanied by General Lee and Colonel Johnson, [illegible] of his staff, and Hon. B. H. Hill, of Georgia, passed through this city last evening in a special train on his way to the front. He arrived at the South Carolina depot about five o'clock, and was met by General Fry, the new commandant of the post, his Honor the Mayor, several other military officers and a large body of citizens. He was escorted through the city by these gentlemen to the Waynesboro' depot. At this place—after having mingled and chatted with the crowd for awhile—he made a speech. We were not present on the occasion, but were informed that it was both eloquent and patriotic. He told the assemblage that if the citizens of the South evinced the same courage and determination which was shown by their revolutionary forefathers, that the freedom and independence of the Confederacy was merely a matter of time; that, although defeat and disaster might befall us and dark clouds cast their dismal shadows upon our prospects, this revolution would be as successful as was the revolution of '76. He called upon the people to cheer up, and urged them to do their whole duty to their country in this the hour of her trial. He also reviewed the late infamous order of Gen. Sherman, and portrayed in vivid colors the fate our people might expect if they allowed their country to be overrun. His speech was a short one, and was received with great applause. The train left for Macon at seven o'clock.

A "REBEL" FUNERAL.—The New York correspondent of the Philadelphia Inquirer, under date of September 4th, writes:

Strange as it may seem, yet it is nevertheless a fact, that we had a rebel funeral at Grace Church, in this city, yesterday. It was attended by many of the most prominent secessionists in town; the fellows, I mean, who made their headquarters at a Broadway hotel, and who threw up their hats in a bar room there whenever news came of a rebel success on sea or land. The deceased was Major Reid Sanders, (son of George Sanders,) who died at Fort Warren on the 3d instant. The body was enclosed in a costly metallic coffin, which was strewn with flowers by fair hands. The officiating clergyman was Rev. Robert G. Dickson.

JIM COOK, SCAVENGER TO THE PRINCE OF WALES.—[illegible] He was a slave owned by the aristocratic family of Wickham. He is said to be engaged to deliver an address before the Philadelphia Female Miscegenation Society on the 19th of October. His address on that occasion will be fully reported in the New York Herald.—Richmond Whig.

CHARLESTON.—The Mercury of Saturday says:

Pursuant to agreement, there was a cessation of hostilities in the harbor yesterday during the forenoon, to allow an undisturbed meeting of the Yankee and Confederate truce steamers. At 8 a. m. the steamer Celt, in charge of Col. John F. Lay, proceeded down the harbor and was met by the enemy's steamer Newport, bringing Col. Woolford, the representative of Gen. Foster.

The transactions that ensued were of no special interest. Colonel Lay delivered over to the enemy a number of captive Surgeons, Assistant Surgeons, Chaplains, etc., together with a number of persons (mostly of foreign birth) of doubtful loyalty, including Mr. Sawyer, the Principal of the Normal School, and family.—About 140 boxes, etc., for the Yankee prisoners confined here were also received.

We are glad to learn that arrangements have now been completed for a general exchange at an early day of the naval officers held as prisoners on both sides.

In the afternoon the enemy's batteries reopened fire briskly upon the city and, were still keeping it up with unusual rapidity at the hour (midnight) when this report closes.

STRANGE IF TRUE.—The Mississippian of the 16th says:

Sixteen thousand copies of the Bible and Testament arrived in Selma yesterday evening, en route for Hood's army. They are the first installment of fifty thousand presented the troops of the Confederate States by the American Bible Society, at New York! They came by way of Memphis.
